

Becky Billock

For nearly two decades, this homegrown concert pianist has toured the U.S. from coast to coast delighting and enlightening audiences with the music of lesser known contemporary and American women composers. From the orchestras of California and Oregon, to national chamber music festivals, to her hometown Pittsburgh Symphony, Becky Billock has opened her audiences' hearts and ears to the modern voices of classical music.

WQLN Radio invites you to hear Billock perform live at our Lobby Performance on Wednesday, December 7 at 11 when she will give an intimate concert of the music that has so captivated her. Audience members at this Lobby Performance will experience the talents of this exceptional musician up close and personal in the salon-like setting of the WQLN Radio studios, and WQLN Radio host Wally Faas will interview Billock to learn just what it is that, for her, sets certain music apart. As always, everyone is welcome at this free Lobby Performance, and we hope to see you there!
